

WAR DECLARED

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 8.—Montenegro declared war against Turkey today.

The Turkish charge d'affaires here was handed his papers early today, and ordered back to Constantinople.

Heavy fighting is in progress on the frontier near Tusi, where Maliossori tribesmen attacked nine battalions of Turkish troops.

Constantinople—M. Plamen-taz, the Montenegrin charge d'affaires here was handed his papers today and ordered to leave for Cettinje at once.

A state of seige has been declared in Macedonia, and Bashi Bazouks, the famous irregular cavalry of the Balkans, are on their way to stamp out the uprisings.

Sofia, Bulgaria—The sobranje has voted full power to declare war on Turkey to Tsar Ferdinand, and addressed telegrams to parliaments at Belgrade, Athens and Cettinje, hoping that "the Christian states are united against Turkey."

Belgrade, Servia—The skupsh-tina today voted full power to the king and cabinet to declare war and to use the money and supplies of the country in war.

London.—The Montenegrin consul general here today confirmed the news that his country had declared war on Turkey.

Most hopeful diplomats do not now believe there is any hope of preventing a war that will devastate the Balkans.

Montenegro is the smallest of the Balkan states. Its population is only 250,000. Its standing army only 50,000.

The Montenegrins are not to be despised as fighters. Even Austria was afraid to invade their country three years ago. They are born fighters, and in their native mountains are invincible.

King Nicholas has ruled over Montenegro for 41 years. He is 72. The crown prince is Danilo, "the Merry Widow Prince" pictured by Franz Lehar in the opera.

News of readiness for war came from Sofia and Belgrade today. Only Athens was not heard from.

ALL FOR A CITY JOB

Dan Calnon blew into Barney Grogan's saloon, at Center and Van Buren streets last night, loudly demanding a city job.

Grogan promised Calnon a job at $2.75 a day, giving away city jobs being apparently one of the best things Grogan does.

Calnon was intoxicated, and perfectly certain $2.75 wasn't enough to keep his thirst satisfied. Breezed up to bar. Had several more drinks. Then drew gun.

Bartender called police. Result: Detective George Murphy suffering from Calnon bullet in right leg; Calnon suffering from various police bullets and may die of them.

"Here's where my friend and I are going to have a few words over nothing," said the wireless operator as he prepared to manipulate his instrument.
